CORNELL SCOTT-HILL HEALTH CENTER ADDS NEW SERVICES TO BETTER MEET PATIENTS' NEEDS

New Haven, CT. — The Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center, a leading provider of community healthcare for forty-five years, is pleased to announce the addition of two new services to its existing medical specialty offerings.

The health center has added both dermatology and rheumatology to its scope of specialty services, which currently includes Cardiology, ENT/Otolaryngology, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Allergy Medicine, Audiology, Infectious Diseases, Perinatal, Gastroenterology, Ophthalmology and Podiatry.

“The health center does not exist to meet just some of the community’s needs; we are here to meet all of its needs. That’s why, as new needs are identified, the health center takes action,” said Michael Taylor, the health center’s CEO. “Over the course of the past year it became apparent there was a need for dermatology and rheumatology services in the community.”

The recent addition of these new service lines is reflective of both the health center’s dedication to the communities it serves as well as to the legacy upon which it is built. The health center has a long history of being a leader, often being the first to provide needed services including being:

- The first community health center in Connecticut
- The first community health center in Connecticut to open an on-site pharmacy
- Connecticut’s first community health center to operate a Women, Infants & Children (WIC) program

- Connecticut's first community health center to offer a fully-integrated 24 hour substance abuse detoxification facility
- Connecticut's first community health center to offer a fully-integrated 24-hour partial hospitalization program and intensive outpatient therapy program
- Connecticut's first community health center to offer a vocational and life skills program for women who are homeless or re-entering society from prison
