HEALTH CENTER TO PARTICIPATE IN JAM WORLD RECORD 2012

ENCOURAGING OTHERS TO JOIN IN AND HELP CONNECTICUT WIN THE NATIONAL TITLE

New Haven, CT — The Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center, a leading provider of community healthcare for over forty years, is thrilled to announce its participation in this Thursday's JAM World Record 2012.

The JAM World Record 2012, an initiative of Let's Move in Schools, is a kid-led national physical activity movement that seeks to set a world record by having two million people participate in just-a-minute (JAM) of exercise this Thursday, September 27th at 10:00 a.m. local time. Besides setting a world record, this initiative also hopes to raise awareness about the importance of physical activity, to teach kids healthy habits at a young age and to ensure that schools across the country have access to quality physical education programs.

To date, the health center has registered over 750 people to participate in this event and across Connecticut more than 12,000 participants are registered. But we can do better. We want to encourage everyone to join in this exciting event and help Connecticut win the national title.

Participants of all ages and abilities are welcome and may participate from wherever they are at on Thursday at 10:00 a.m. local time. Participants can follow the one minute exercise video available on the JAM World Record 2012 website or make up their own routine.

Anyone wishing to join the health center team may do so at one of five Cornell Scott-Hill Health Center care sites: Davis Street Arts and Academic Magnet School, 35 Davis Street, New Haven; Hill Central Music Academy, 375 Quinnipiac Avenue, New Haven; 121 Wakelee Avenue, Ansonia; 285 main Street, West Haven; and 428 Columbus Avenue, New Haven.
